

THE TRIAL FILES

26/07/2025 RANDWICK

Rail Position: +11m 1000m-W/Post, + 8m Remainder

Interesting rail and a big watch on how the track will play. Track should be okay. Showers forecast on the day.

Race 1 - 11:20AM KEENELAND SEPTEMBER YEARLING SALE HANDICAP (1100 METRES)

Lots of speed engaged here. We saw SHAGGY lead and win for fun early in his career, even over 800m on debut. He has speed and an inside barrier. HELLO ROMEO has speed and ISSY'S STAR has speed from out wide. Try and slot in. KOIBITO is on debu and trained by Waterhouse. Enough said. Then we have #7 NAZWAH who might be quickest of them all. If SHAGGY does want to kick up, NAZWAH should find a nice position either way from barrier 4, potentially outside lead.

Loved the trials of #7 NAZWAH prior to her debut and she simply made a mess of them there at Gosford. Fast early, fast late in a high rating performance. Second fastest final 200m of the meeting off a fast tempo and she was untouched by Sherry. She could be a very smart horse and love that she stays at the 1100m which we love. This is much stronger than her debut but she looks very hard to beat.

#1 SHAGGY has drifted a little since markets opened. He is a speedy horse but wanted to see a bit more from his trials. Big watch on the horse that beat him in his latest trial, she looks superb. Don't love the inside barrier for SHAGGY and he may have to absorb a bit of pressure first up also. No issue at the 1100m last campaign but that was third up. He's now first-up off one trial since May 29. Risking.

#3 NASHVILLE has trialled up okay. Just wanted to see a bit more from him late at Rosehill. He changed legs late in the piece and didn't find. #5 STEEL KNIGHT also through the Black Opal. Two winning trials okay and gelded. #10 KOIBITO ridden to win her recent 1050m trial. She looks ready to debut.

SELECTION:
